The authors of the book Transformational Groups noted ways in which involvement in a Sunday School Class or Small Group is advantageous for a believer. The research demonstrated that people in groups give financially at a higher level than those not in groups, they share their faith more frequently, they confess sin more frequently, they serve to a greater degree than people who have not connected with a group of their own. The authors noted that, "One thing is definitely clear: Those who attend groups act and think differently from those who do not.

We passionately believe that engaging in small groups...promotes and even causes such greater involvement and activity.

That's been our experience..."
